DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-13 are pending.

Raw Sequence Listing have been entered.

Submitted Information Disclosure Statement (I.D.S) is noted.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-11 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7 of U.S. Patent No. 6,235,523 B1. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they overlap in scope. In addition, the subject matter of the claims are so closely related that would incorporate overlap species and/or claim 1 is so broadly drafted that would incorporate any and all species that may or may not be present in ,523 Patent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 1648

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Boursnell et al (WO 92/16636).

The product disclosed in the above cited reference meets the broad limitations of the claimed invention. The above cited reference taught an expression vector wherein the vector encompasses a heterologous protein such as HPV-16 E7, E6 and HPV-18- E7, E6 (see the abstract, and claims). In addition, the reference taught method of treating against papillomavirus (see claims 23-24).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Art Unit: 1648

Claims 1-5, 7, 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Urban et al (US Patent No.6,013,258 A).

The product disclosed in the above cited reference meets the broad limitations of the claimed invention. The above cited reference taught plasmid wherein the plasmid encompasses a heterologous protein such as HPV-16 E7 and CMV promoter (see Figure 1, and the claims).

Claims 1-4, 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jansen et al (US Patent No.6,290,965 B1).

The product disclosed in the above cited reference meets the broad limitations of the claimed invention. The above cited reference taught plasmid wherein the plasmid encompasses a heterologous protein such as HPV-6a E6 and E7 and CMV promoter (see Column 12, lines 25-37, and the claims 2, 6, 7, 8).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 7-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Urban et al (US Patent No. 6,013, 258 A), and Rensing et al (J. Immunology, 1995).

As stated above Urban et al taught plasmid having CMV promoter and antigenic region of human papillomavirus of type 16 (see the claims). In addition, Rensing et al further disclosed epitopes of human papillomavirus E6 and E7 (see the abstract, Table 1, Table II). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of filing to insert E6 and/or E7 epitopes of papillomavirus as disclosed by Rensing et al into a plasmid having CMV promoter as disclosed by Urban et al absent any unexpected results. Therefore, the invention as a whole is prima facie obvious absent unexpected results.

Art Unit: 1648

No claims are allowed.
